

GOGBOT 2010; Singularity, presents eclectic and futuristic dance program!

From September 9th to 12th the city centre of Enschede (NL) will once again be dominated by the annual art, music and technology festival GOGBOT, presented by PLANETART. Technological and scientific advances are accelerating and will - within a few decades - culminate in the demise of the biological man; a theme that is also referred to as Singularity. At GOGBOT 2010 you will for four days full of multimedia, music, interactive installations, nanotech, film, artificial intelligence and the Beauty Salon of the Future be immersed in a world in which humanity has been relegated to the status of pet by ever more intelligent machines, as: The Singularity is Near, Resistance is Futile. GOGBOT 2010 Festival is held free of charge at more than ten locations across Enschede, except for the evening program at Atak.

DANCE

When the machines come to power and resistance is futile, you surrender to your machine rhythm and let yourself be swept along to pounding beats. The difference between day and night becomes vague in a world where the distinction between reality and virtual reality grows ever more diffuse. The thump in the background becomes a new call to action; the bell ringing in a near future.

Cease all resistance, take off the armor of your defense and give in to the beat. Dance you will, swept along by the fierce and merciless hand of the machine hammer. Dance enthusiasts will be more than satisfied by the GOGBOT 2010 Festival. The festival presents an eclectic and futuristic program.

On the opening night, Daft Punk-producer Etienne de Crecy's robotic electro will emanate from the fabulous The Cube construction by 1024 Architecture. Deeper into the night, the Utrecht 030303 collective will host an proper acid rave. Electronics with a glitch, hiphop and dubstep with a scratch, always surprising and astonishingly innovative; that is what Dorian Concept is good for. Together with Loops Haunt (cf: The Gaslamp Killer, Flying Lotus) he will bring the house down at the GOGBOT 2010 Festival on Friday evening. Deeper, deeper, deepest you will dive into the dubstep basses on Saturday with leading lights Benga and Eprom. You want it rougher? Sickboy and Ladyscraper will whip it into you; experimentalism is represented by Alva Noto and Atom TM. And the GOGBOT 2010 gives up and coming underground avant-garde a stage with shows by for example Rioteer, Unyx and 2Junxion.

MORE

With a day program filled with exhibitions, interactive installations and surprising performance art, and of course free concerts on the Oude Markt (Old Market) in the evenings, the city centre of Enschede will be dominated by the GOGBOT 2010 Festival for four days. In other words: the festival is more, much more than just a few nights of dance, dance and more dance. For those who can survive the dawn, there is more than enough to experience and discover.
